

Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 03 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Mainly cloudy and cold in east. Sunny spells in west.

Today:

The Central Belt and eastern Scotland will remain largely cloudy and feeling cold. Dry with sunny spells in the west. A few showers later across the Northern Isles.

Tonight:

Clear spells in the west. Otherwise largely cloudy with a few showers spreading south. A few clear spells in the far north later.

Thursday:

Mainly cloudy morning with showery rain and hill snow moving southwards. Largely dry with increasing amounts of sunshine in the afternoon. Cold northeasterly winds.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

A sharp frost on Friday morning then dry with sunny spells. Mainly dry and bright on Saturday and Sunday with overnight frosts but patchy rain in the north and west.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.